MERRILL
A BANK OF AMERICA COMPANY

Getting started with your Zebra equity awards

Zebra Technologies Long-term Incentive Plan

ZEBRA

Award access and resources

Benefits OnLine®

benefits.ml.com

Once you have access to Benefits OnLine, you can check your grants, take necessary actions related to your awards, receive important alerts, and more. When you see the click-to-chat (💬) icon you can connect with a live agent for assistance.

Benefits OnLine app

You can stay on top of your equity awards with this free app.* To download, visit Benefits OnLine on your mobile device and select your platform when prompted. Or, go to the App Store or Google Play, depending on your mobile device, and search for Benefits OnLine.

Visit the Education Center on Benefits OnLine

View videos, guides and articles designed to improve your financial health. It also features an Equity Awards Education section go.ml.com/equityed to help you understand, manage and monitor your equity awards.

24/7 Customer Service for Participants Living in the U.S.

Merrill's customer service center is available anytime by calling:

833.ZBRA.STK or 833.927.2785

Be sure to have your Social Security number, Zebra ID number or Benefits OnLine User ID available for verification purposes.

International Participants

To view portions of the Benefits OnLine website in another language, select Benefits OnLine International at the top of the login page and follow the prompts. Benefits OnLine will remember your language each time you log in from the same computer.

Zebra employees living outside the U.S. can call Merrill without incurring any charges using AT&T's Direct Toll-free Access Codes:

1) Find your countries' AT&T Direct Access Code and Country Code in this list
2) Dial the Direct Access Code
3) Dial Merrill's Customer Service number: 833.927.2785

If your country is not listed, please place a collect call to +1.609.450.1857.

*Carrier fees may apply.

The app is designed to work with most smartphones in most countries.

This brochure is a general description of equity plan services. Any awards that you have or may be granted are subject to the terms of your company's plan, any agreement between you and your company covering your equity awards, and the prospectus provided to you by your company. Any transactions in connection with your plan in your Merrill brokerage account are subject to the terms and conditions of that account. This brochure does not constitute an offer or invitation to buy any securities. Any offer to buy securities from your company would be made only by a prospectus in accordance with the Securities Act of 1933 as amended, and all applicable laws.

Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith Incorporated (also referred to as "MLPF&S" or "Merrill") makes available certain investment products sponsored, managed, distributed or provided by companies that are affiliates of Bank of America Corporation ("BofA Corp."). MLPF&S is a registered broker-dealer, member SIPC, and a wholly owned subsidiary of BofA Corp.

Investment products:

Are Not FDIC Insured	Are Not Bank Guaranteed	May Lose Value

Equity awards can be an important part of your overall compensation, and can help you finance many of your life's priorities—from family to leisure, from health care to college planning.

That's why Merrill offers a wide range of resources to help you manage and monitor your awards, including Benefits OnLine. Through Merrill, you have access to:

- Detailed information about your awards, online or by phone
- Online modeling and transaction capabilities
- Online statements, confirmations, and forms
- An online Education Center with information to help you understand equity awards and how they work

This brochure includes information about your equity awards. Please keep this guide with your award agreements and related plan documents as a reference.

What's Inside

Getting started

Your equity awards checklist 4

Reviewing your awards

Reflexis employee nonqualified stock options 5

Reflexis employee incentive stock options . .7

Restricted awards 9

Performance awards 10

Stock Appreciation Rights 11

Transferring company stock. 12

Choose your sale order type 13

Service fees 14

Section 16/Rule 144

If you are a director, executive officer, associate or other person subject to Rule 144 or Section 16 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended ("Section 16 persons"), you will work directly with your financial advisor team to open your brokerage account and conduct transactions. You will still enjoy the convenience of online access to your award and account information as well as other helpful resources.

Your equity awards checklist

There are a few things you need to do on Benefits OnLine to get started with your equity awards. Use this checklist to guide you through the steps, and what you'll need to have on hand to complete each one.

STEP 1
Create your User ID and password

What you'll need:

- Your Social Security number (if you're a U.S. citizen or resident)
- Your employee identification number (if you're an international employee)

Then, visit benefits.ml.com to get started. If you already have a User ID and password for another plan at Merrill, you do not need to create new ones.

STEP 2
Open your Merrill brokerage account and complete your tax certification

When you log in to Benefits OnLine, you'll get a prompt to open your Limited Individual Investor Account (LIIA). You'll need to open this account before you can conduct transactions related to your equity awards—even if you have another Merrill brokerage account. The LIIA is a limited, self-directed, non-interest-bearing brokerage account.

What you'll need:

- Your Benefits OnLine User ID and password

Next, you must complete your tax certification to avoid additional backup withholding on your award transactions.

To do so, you'll need:

- Your Social Security number (if you're a U.S. citizen or resident)
- Your tax identification number (if you're a non-U.S. citizen)

STEP 3
Accept your awards (if applicable)

You may be required to accept certain awards before you can exercise them or receive shares or cash payouts. By accepting your awards right away, you can avoid potential delays later. For detailed instructions visit go.ml.com/eqacaw

STEP 4
Set up direct deposit or wire instructions

You can choose to have cash proceeds from your award transactions deposited directly to a U.S.-based checking or savings account—or set up wire instructions to transfer funds from your Merrill brokerage account to another account.

What you'll need:

- For direct deposit, your bank account number and ABA routing code
- For wire instructions, your bank's ABA routing code (or SWIFT code for non-U.S. financial institutions) and the account number where you want the funds to go

A guide to your account

go.ml.com/eqaa

Get detailed instructions for taking these steps and other actions on Benefits OnLine.

Choose online delivery

benefits.ml.com

Go green and sign up for online delivery of your statements, confirmations and more. You can also elect to receive personalized financial education to help enhance your financial well-being.

Reflexis employee nonqualified stock options

What they are

The right to purchase company stock at a set price for a specific period.

How they work

- Subject to a waiting period (also called a vesting period), an exercise (purchase) period and an expiration date.
- Stock can be purchased during the exercise period at the price specified when the options were granted (grant price), assuming the stock's fair market value (FMV) is not below the grant price. This purchase is called "exercising your stock options."
- If you do not exercise your stock options before the expiration date, you lose the right to purchase stock at the grant price.[1]

Please read the grant agreement provided by your company for details on the specific terms and conditions of your award. For more information, contact your Human Resources Business Partner.

Taxes

- When you exercise nonqualified stock options, any gain on the exercise (the difference between the grant price and the FMV[2] of the stock at the time of exercise) is considered ordinary income under U.S. tax law. In non-U.S. locations, tax implications may vary.[3]
- Taxes on this income are generally due at the time of exercise (see "Exercise method" on the next page).
- If and when you sell your stock at a later date, the difference between the FMV of the stock at the time of exercise and the sale date is treated as a capital gain or loss. In non-U.S. locations, tax implications may vary.[3]

A guide to Stock Options

go.ml.com/eqso

Get step-by-step instructions for modeling and exercising your stock options on Benefits OnLine.

Lifecycle of stock options

1. Grant date

Date options are granted at a set price

Vesting (waiting) period begins

2. Vesting period

Waiting period before stock can be purchased

Merrill brokerage account opened

3. Vesting date

Date options become exercisable

4. Exercise period

Options can be exercised to purchase stock at the grant price

5. Expiration date

Date the right to exercise stock options expires

Unexercised options are forfeited

[1] If your expiration date falls on a weekend or a holiday of the Nasdaq, you must exercise by the market close on the trading day before your expiration date. Earlier expiration dates may apply under your company plan due to termination of employment, disability or death. Please refer to the terms and conditions of your plan for rules relating to earlier expiration of stock options.

[2] The definition of the stock's fair market value used to calculate your tax obligation is determined by your plan.

[3] Merrill, its affiliates and financial advisors do not provide legal, tax or accounting advice. You should consult your legal and/or tax advisors before making any financial decisions.

(continued)

Exercise method

When you decide to exercise your nonqualified stock options, the exercise method below – cashless sell – must be used. Exercise methods depend on how the purchase of shares will be paid and whether proceeds will be received in stock or in cash. Here is an example of exercise costs and the exercise method available to you.

Example of exercise costs[4]

Options granted	Grant price/ Exercise cost	Fair market value on exercise date	Gain (taxable income)	Assumed tax rate[5]	Taxes due at exercise	Total exercise cost (includes taxes; excludes fees and commissions)
1,000	$10 per share (Total: $10,000)	$15 per share (Total: $15,000)	$5,000	33%	$1,650 ($5,000 x .33)	$11,650 ($10,000 to purchase shares + $1,650 in taxes)

Exercise method

Receive…	Pay exercise costs using…	Method	Example (includes taxes; excludes fees and commissions)
Cash	Cash from the sale of shares from your award	Cashless sell All shares are sold and you receive the net cash proceeds after exercise costs are deducted.	Exercise cost: $11,650 Cash paid: $0 Shares sold: 1,000 You receive: $3,350 cash ($15,000 cash proceeds – $11,650 costs)

[4] Examples are for illustrative purposes only.

[5] Taxed as ordinary income (e.g., federal, state, local, FICA).

Reflexis employee incentive stock options

What they are

- The right to purchase company stock at a set price for a specific period.
- A tax incentive for holding the stock for a certain period before selling.

How they work

- Subject to a waiting period (also called a vesting period), an exercise (purchase) period and an expiration date. After a stock holding period (over one year from the date of exercise and two years from the grant date) you receive favored tax treatment on any sale of the stock.
- Stock can be purchased during the exercise period at the price specified when the options were granted (grant price), assuming the stock's fair market value (FMV) is not below the grant price.[6] This purchase is called "exercising your stock options."
- If you do not exercise your stock options before the expiration date, you lose the right to purchase stock at the grant price.[7]

Please read the grant agreement provided by your company for details on the specific terms and conditions of your award. For more information contact your Human Resources Business Partner.

Taxes

- Taxes are generally due when stock is sold (not when exercised), but may be due at the time of exercise depending on the type of exercise and your plan's requirements (see "Exercise method" on the next page).
- If the stock is sold after the holding period, any gain is taxed at the capital gains rate for U.S. citizens. If the stock is sold at exercise or during the holding period, any gain is considered ordinary income.[8] In non-U.S. locations, tax implications may vary.[9]

Lifecycle of incentive stock options

1. Grant date

Options are granted at a set price.

Vesting (waiting) period begins

2. Vesting period

Waiting period before stock can be received.

Merrill brokerage account opened

3. Vesting date

Options become exercisable

4. Exercise period

Options can be exercised to purchase stock at the grant price

5. Expiration date

The date the right to exercise stock options expires.

Unexercised options are forfeited

6. Holding period

Begins upon exercise.

Waiting period before a stock sale is given preferred tax treatment

[6] The definition of the stock's fair market value is determined by your plan.

[7] If your expiration date falls on a weekend or a holiday of the Nasdaq, you must exercise by the market close on the trading day before your expiration date. Earlier expiration dates may apply under your company plan due to termination of employment, disability or death. Please refer to the terms and conditions of your plan for rules relating to earlier expiration of incentive stock options.

[8] The way the gain, if any, is calculated may vary depending on when the stock is sold and at what price. Call a participant service representative for more information.

[9] Merrill, its affiliates and financial advisors do not provide legal, tax or accounting advice. You should consult your legal and/or tax advisors before making any financial decisions.

(continued)

Exercise method

When you decide to exercise your incentive stock options, the exercise method below – cashless sell – must be used. Exercise methods depend on how the purchase of shares will be paid and whether proceeds will be received in stock or in cash. Here is an example of exercise costs and the exercise method available to you.

Example of exercise costs[10]

Options granted	Grant price/ Exercise cost	Sale price	Gain	Assumed tax rate[11]	Taxes due at time of sale[12]
1,000	$10 per share (Total: $10,000)	$20 per share	$10,000	After holding period 15% (capital gains rate) At exercise/during holding period 33% (ordinary income rate)	If all shares are sold after holding period $1,500 ($10,000 x .15) If all shares sold during holding period $3,300 ($10,000 x .33)

Exercise method

Receive…	Pay exercise costs using…	Method	Tax incentive
Cash	Cash from the sale of shares from your award	Cashless sell exercise All shares are sold and you receive the net cash proceeds after exercise costs are deducted.	Sale of shares on exercise date (before holding period ends) is considered a “disqualifying disposition” and the gain is taxed as ordinary income under U.S. tax law

[10] Examples are for illustrative purposes only.

[11] Taxed as ordinary income (e.g., Federal, State, Local, FICA).

[12] Tax obligation would vary if the sale price is below the fair market value (FMV) of the stock on the exercise date (gain would be calculated on the bargain element, which is the difference between the grant price and the FMV of the stock on the exercise date).

Restricted awards

What they are

Restricted Stock

- Actual shares of your company stock recorded in your name in company stockholder records.
- Generally, these shares carry voting rights.

Restricted Stock Units

- An unsecured promise from your company to settle your award in cash at a future date.
- Restricted Stock Units are not actual shares of company stock, and therefore they do not carry voting rights.

How they work

- Generally subject to employment and vesting criteria. The vesting period is often referred to as the restriction period. Shares/units may not be sold, pledged, transferred or assigned during this period.
- You do not have to purchase these shares. You receive your shares (or cash, if applicable), net of any withheld for taxes, in your Merrill brokerage account automatically when the restriction period ends and vesting conditions are met. If vesting conditions are not met, the awards may be forfeited.

Please read the grant agreement provided by your company for details on the specific terms and conditions of your award. For more information, contact your Human Resources Business Partner.

Taxes

- Awards are taxed as ordinary income under U.S. tax law based on their total fair market value on the restriction lapse (vesting) date.
- Taxes are generally due on that date. In non-U.S. locations, tax implications may vary.[13]
- Your taxes will be paid based upon the requirements of each individual country where the award was granted:
  - Share withholding (U.S. and U.K.) Some of your awarded shares are withheld for taxes and you receive the net shares.
  - (Outside the U.S. and U.K.) Taxes are withheld and paid according to local tax practices, which vary by country.
  - Cash payment—Taxes are paid in cash by local payroll.

A guide to Restricted Awards

go.ml.com/eqrsu

Get step-by-step instructions for modeling your restricted awards on Benefits OnLine. You may also get more information on the Employee Central site on zConnect.

Lifecycle of restricted stock awards

1. Grant date

Awards are granted; restriction (vesting) period begins

2. Restriction (vesting) period

Waiting period before stock can be received

Merrill brokerage account opened

3. Tax requirement

Tax obligation to be met through share withholding or cash payment as specified by your plan

Tax requirements and obligations may vary by country

4. Restriction lapse (vesting) date

Tax obligation met

5. Share deposit

If share settled, net shares are generally deposited to your brokerage account within 72 hours, though this may vary

For cash settled units, participants will receive cash via local payrolls

[13] Merrill, its affiliates and financial advisors do not provide legal, tax or accounting advice. You should consult your legal and/or tax advisors before making any financial decisions.

Performance awards

What they are

Performance Shares

- Actual shares of company stock recorded in your name in company shareholder records.
- Generally, these shares carry voting rights.

Performance Units

- An unsecured promise from your company to deliver cash at a future date.
- Performance Units are not actual shares of company stock and do not carry voting rights.

How they work

- Must be earned based on the attainment of company performance goals over a given performance period. Shares may not be sold, pledged, transferred or assigned during the performance period.
- You do not have to purchase these shares. You receive net shares automatically if the performance/vesting conditions are met. If the performance or vesting criteria are not met, the awards may be forfeited.

Please read the grant agreement provided by your company for details on the specific terms and conditions of your award. For more information contact your Human Resources Business Partner.

Taxes

- Awards are taxed as ordinary income under U.S. tax law based on their total fair market value on the vesting date. Taxes are generally due on that date. In non-U.S. locations, tax implications may vary.[14]
- Your taxes will be paid based upon the requirements of each individual country where the award was granted:
  - Share withholding (U.S. and U.K.) Some of your awarded shares are withheld for taxes and you receive the net shares.
  - (Outside the U.S. and U.K.) Taxes are withheld and paid according to local tax practices, which vary by country.
  - Cash payment—Taxes are paid in cash by local payroll.

A guide to Performance Awards

go.ml.com/eqpa

Get step-by-step instructions for modeling your performance awards on Benefits OnLine.

Lifecycle of performance awards

1. Grant date

Awards are granted

2. Performance period

Period during which performance criteria must be met

Merrill brokerage account opened

3. Tax requirement

Tax obligation to be met through share withholding or cash payment, as specified by your plan

Tax requirements and obligations may vary by country

4. Vesting date

If performance criteria are met by the end of the performance period, taxes are automatically paid

5. Share deposit

If share settled, net shares are generally deposited to your brokerage account within 72 hours, though this may vary

For cash settled units, participants will receive cash via local payrolls

[14] Merrill, its affiliates and financial advisors do not provide legal, tax or accounting advice. You should consult your legal and/or tax advisors before making any financial decisions.

Stock Appreciation Rights

What they are

- The right to receive shares and/or cash equal to any gain in the value of your company's stock over a set period. The gain is calculated on the increase in value of a set number of shares as determined in your grant agreement.

How they work

- Subject to a waiting period (also called a vesting period), an exercise (payout) period and an expiration date.
- You need to exercise your stock appreciation rights (SARs) during the exercise period to receive a payout from an award. You are responsible for the taxes and any transaction costs that may apply.[15]
- If you do not exercise your SARs before the expiration date, you may forfeit the right to receive any payouts.[16]

Please read the grant agreement provided by your company for details on the specific terms and conditions of your award. For more information contact your Human Resources Business Partner.

A guide to Stock Appreciation Rights go.ml.com/eqsar

Get step-by-step instructions for modeling your stock appreciation rights on Benefits OnLine.

Lifecycle of Stock Appreciation Rights

1. Grant date

SARs are granted.

Vesting (waiting) period begins.

2. Vesting period

Waiting period before payout can be received.

Merrill brokerage account opened.

3. Vesting date

SARs become exercisable.

4. Exercise period

SARs can be exercised. Settlement can be received in shares or cash depending on your location.

5. Expiration date

The date the right to exercise SARs expires.

Unexercised SARs are forfeited.

[15] Merrill, its affiliates and financial advisors do not provide legal, tax or accounting advice. You should consult your legal and/or tax advisors before making any financial decisions.

[16] If your expiration date falls on a weekend or a holiday of the Nasdaq, you must exercise by the market close on the trading day before your expiration date. Earlier expiration dates may apply under your company plan due to termination of employment, disability or death. Please refer to the terms and conditions of your plan for rules relating to earlier expiration of SARs.

Transferring company stock

If you have company stock from an equity plan at another financial institution, you can transfer it to your Merrill brokerage account (LIIA/IIA). If your stock is jointly held, you will be changing ownership upon transfer to an individually held account at Merrill (check with your current financial institution regarding the ownership change process). There is no service fee charged to you by Merrill for this broker-to-broker transfer.

- Contact the financial institution that holds your company shares.
- Confirm that Depository Trust Company (DTC) transfers are permitted and what the fees may be. If you cannot make a DTC transfer, contact a participant service representative for more information.

What you need

1. Your Merrill brokerage account number (LIIA/IIA)
2. Your exact name and title as listed on the account
3. Merrill's DTC number (8862)
4. The number of shares you want to transfer

You may be required to complete a form for this request. Shares should be electronically delivered to your Merrill account within three to five business days (seven to ten days if transferred from a non-U.S. financial institution).

Contact the transferring financial institution if the shares are not in your account after seven to ten business days. To reach Merrill about the deposit, call 833.ZBRA.STK (833.927.2785).

Zebra employees living outside the U.S. can call Merrill without incurring any charges using AT&T's Direct Toll-free Access Codes:

1) Find your countries' AT&T Direct Access Code and Country Code in this list
2) Dial the Direct Access Code
3) Dial Merrill's Customer Service number: 833.927.2785

If your country is not listed, please place a collect call to +1.609.450.1857.

Choose your sale order type

When you sell company stock (including when exercising options), you must decide when you want the sale to take place—at the next available sale price (a “market order”) or at a specified price (a “limit order”).

If you want to…	Choose this method	How it works
Sell your shares at the next available sale price	Market Order	As soon as market conditions allow, your shares will be sold.
Set the price at which to sell your shares…	Limit Order (You must select one of the types below):	If the stock price reaches or exceeds your set limit price, shares are sold subject to market conditions. If the price is not met while the order is in effect, your order is cancelled and shares/options are available for future sale/exercise.
…on the current trading day	Day Limit Order	Order is in effect for current trading day only. Orders entered after market close will be in effect for the next business day.
…over the next 180 calendar days	Good ‘Til Canceled Limit Order	Order is in effect for 180 calendar days following the date of entry. For orders entered after the market close but before 12 midnight Eastern, the 180-day count begins two business days after the order is entered.

Sale orders

- Merrill will execute all sale orders subject to market conditions.
- You may receive partial execution of the sale order you place, resulting in only a portion of your stock options being exercised. Once your exercise has been entered, you should check the exercise confirmation on Benefits OnLine to determine the number of stock options exercised.
- If you placed a Good ‘Til Canceled cashless sell exercise order and partial execution occurs, the unsold portion will remain open and available for execution so you won’t need to re-enter the order for the balance of the option not exercised. Please note that for all other exercise types, you may need to re-enter the order if partial execution occurs.

Company blackouts

- Generally, all limit orders related to SARs/stock option exercises will be cancelled at the outset of a blackout period (a period set by your company during which purchases and sales of company stock are prohibited). Generally, no stock option exercises will be processed online during a blackout period.
- No new orders related to SARs/stock option exercises may be placed online or over the phone during a blackout period.
- Any and all blackout periods are determined by your company and are subject to change.

Service fees

Transaction fees

Award recipients are charged the following commissions when exercising stock options or selling existing company stock held in a Merrill brokerage account.

Service channel	Minimum	Transaction cost
Benefits OnLine website and app	$0	$0
Participant service representative	$12.95	$0.03 per share
Financial advisor team	$6.95	$0

The minimums and transaction costs are on a per-grant basis.

Participants selling large blocks of shares (e.g., 10,000 or more) may benefit by consulting a Merrill representative prior to executing the transaction. Large blocks of shares sold through Merrill's Special Equities Trading group may result in a more favorable execution price when compared to the online system. However, there is no guarantee that a representative will be able to obtain a more favorable execution price.

Other fees*

Account	Cost	Important information
Limited Individual Investor Account (LIIA) or, for Section 16 persons, Individual Investor Account (IIA)	No fee for active participants $65 annual fee for inactive participants with cash and/or securities balance	Active participants include anyone with grants outstanding or eligible to receive future grants. Contact a participant service representative for more information.

Service	Cost	Important information
Direct deposit	No fee	Applies to cash proceeds at time of transaction.
Wire transfer	$7.50	Wire transfers may not be available in all currencies.
Non-U.S. currency checks	$15.00	Checks may not be available in all currencies.
Stock certificate / DRS statement requests	Contact a participant service representative	Fees vary depending on your company's participation in the Direct Registration System (DRS) at the Depository Trust Company.
SEC transaction fee (as of February 18, 2020)	$0.0221 for each $1,000.00 or fraction thereof	Fee assessed and paid to the Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) on each stock sale. Fee is subject to change by the SEC.
Brokerage account transfer (DTC transfer)	No fee for active participants	Applies only to Depository Trust Company (DTC) transfer of assets to another broker. Contact a participant service representative for more information.
Duplicate confirmations	$5.00 per hard copy	Excludes transactions within the last six months. Available online at no cost.
Duplicate statements	$5.00 per hard copy	Excludes the two most recent statements. Available online at no cost.

* You will be subject to the applicable fees, terms and conditions associated with the retail brokerage account established in connection with your equity award program. All brokerage account fees are subject to change upon notification to you.

 Requests made outside of the AwardChoice® system (Benefits OnLine, participant service representatives or a financial advisor) are subject to retail brokerage wire transfer fees.

Commissions and account fees for transactions and services unrelated to your company equity awards plan are subject to standard Merrill rates. Please speak with a participant service representative for more information.

This booklet contains certain descriptions of plan features as they exist at the time of final editing of the booklet, January 2021. While every effort has been made to ensure the accuracy of the booklet, if there is any conflict between the information in the booklet and the official documents governing the plans and programs, the official documents will control. Nothing in the booklet is intended to create or affect an employment relationship between Zebra Technologies Corporation or its subsidiaries and affiliates, and any person. The sponsors of the plans and programs have reserved the right to amend or terminate any plan or program at any time, at the sole discretion of each, in accordance with the terms of the plan or program.

Neither Zebra Technologies Corporation, Merrill, nor any of its affiliates or financial advisors provide legal, tax or accounting advice. You should consult your legal and/or tax advisors before making any financial decisions.

Merrill provides products and services to various employers, their employees and other individuals. In connection with providing these products and services, and at the request of the employer, Merrill makes available websites on the internet, mobile device applications, and written brochures in order to provide you with information regarding your plan. Under no circumstances should these websites, applications, and brochures, or any information included in these websites, applications, and brochures, be considered an offer to sell or a solicitation to buy any securities, products, or services from Merrill or any other person or entity.

ZEBRA and the stylized Zebra head are trademarks of Zebra Technologies Corporation, registered in many jurisdictions worldwide.

Unless otherwise noted, all trademarks and registered trademarks are the property of Bank of America Corporation.
© 2021 Bank of America Corporation. All rights reserved. | 3394514 | 20203815-1 | 01/2021 | ADA